The close fishing season begins at 6 o'clock this morning. From that hour until 6 o'clock of the morning of April 15 it will be unlawful to catch salmon or other like fish. The close season will be enforced by the fish warden and all persons found fishing will be arrested.

The session of the circuit court will be continued Monday morning, when the case of Captain E. P. Parker will be called for trial. He is charged with assault with intent to kill. It is expected that a hard legal fight will ensue, as the offense is a serious one, conviction meaning a term in prison.

Some hall was well filled last night with interested spectators and dancers when the grand march was led off in the mask ball given by the Finnish Temperance society. The Finnish orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion. The prize winners were Miss Bloom, John Jeyha, Tom Hinnala Miss F. Wickman and Charles Whirkla.

The excellent record made by Sheriff Linville in the collection of taxes last year no doubt will be equalled this year. Taxpayers are responding promptly, and at the close of business last night about $7500 had been paid in. This amount represents the payments of the small taxpayers, only a few heavy property owners having thus far made settlement.

It is now certain that John R. Goulter will resign the position of superintendent of the peninsula division of the O. R. & N. system. This move, it appears, has been in contemplation for two or three weeks, and will be the second time Mr. Goulter has tendered his resignation to the company. The contemplated change will occur about the 15th of March.

The Portland Journal alleges that on the night of the senatorial election, H. W. Scott wired President Brownell, "Now is the time. If you can help me it will be appreciated." This, the Portland paper claims, is somewhat contradictory to the leading editorial in the Oregonian of the following morning, but adds that owing to the excitement of the occasion the editor doubtless forgot having sent the telegram.

The second outburst of the Molly Hoggans occurred last night, at the Odd Fellows' hall. A. B. Dalgity of Aberdeen, Scotland, acted as toastmaster. An elaborate spread was served, and the large number of members present enjoyed themselves thoroughly. A program of much interest was carried out. Among the most pleasing selections was B. J. Pye's pathetic song, "Don't Cry, Father, Mother's Working."

Two United States army transports, the Logan and the Kilpatrick, both loaded with troops, sailed for the Philippines from San Francisco. The scene on the government wharf was a stirring one. Strikingly reminiscent of the days of war, it is the first time in a year and a half that the government found it necessary to dispatch two vessels on the Fourth Infantry, and the Logan the cavalry.

January and February have been record breakers in the matter of police court receipts. The revenue for January was $732 and for February $535, in 1901, or $217 less than the receipts for January of this year. For February the greatest total receipts heretofore was $670, also in 1901. If the receipts for the balance of the year should be equally as good as those for January and February, the total revenue for the 12 months will exceed $100,000.

At a meeting of the city school directors last evening it was decided to transfer the first and second grades of the Olney school to the Taylor school in West Astoria, with Miss Clara Baker and Miss Stockton as teachers. School will open there tomorrow, the beginning of the new term. It was further decided that the school be conducted under the direct supervision of Prof. Clark, principal of the McClure. There will be about 100 pupils in attendance.

The Pagan sound tug Tyee arrived in port yesterday to tow the German bark Alsterize around to Esquimalt. Captain Dan McVlear will have charge of the bark during the trip over. It was expected that the start would be made today, but nearly all the men have left the bark, and she has a crew of only four persons. The men who have left her claim that they are not deserters, for the reason that the vessel is in a technically unseaworthy condition. They have demanded their pay and refuse to make the trip. Captain Auhagen will be compelled to engage other men for the trip, and the time of his start for Esquimalt will depend entirely on the success of his efforts to get other sailors.

Sheriff Storey and P. S. Malcolm were added to the agricultural committee of the 1903 fair, at a meeting this morning, says the Telegram. Mr. Storey was one of the most enthusiastic present, and offered his team and anything he had toward furthering the interests of the committee. A delegation from the Portland Rose society was present to discuss the prospect of rose adornments for the fair grounds.

Mr. S. C. Tooker of Minneapolis is here on a short visit. Mr. Tooker's firm is a large handler of salmon and represents the Columbia River Packers' association and Samuel Elmore & Co. in the Minnesota territory. In an interview Mr. Tooker expressed the opinion that the recent cut in prices of pinks and chums is sure to have a very beneficial effect on the demand for all medium and better classes of salmon. He also mentioned a greatly increased demand in his territory for the well-known Elmore salmon and said it was amply justified by the care taken in the selection of the fish, the preparation, processing, etc.

District Attorney Allen yesterday received a reply to his request that the military authorities at Vancouver allow the civil authorities to try the case of Glen Menzemer, the Fort Stevens soldier who is accused of forgery. The commanding officer at Vancouver says in his letter that Menzemer will be tried by court-martial in a few days for desertion, and he suggests that the punishment then meted out to the soldier may be deemed sufficient to appease civil wrath. Mr. Allen says he will not further press the matter, feeling confident that the wayward soldier will get his just deserts at the hands of the military court.

Giddy young people of Chinook disturbed a church meeting a few nights ago, and the M. E. pastor, Rev. Galbraith, caused the arrest of two of the offenders. Young men and young women took part in the disturbance, and their conduct was so obnoxious that the pastor reprimanded them on three different occasions. His protests were of no avail. Determined to prevent repetition of the affair, the pastor appeared before the justice of the peace the following day and swore to warrants charging two of the offenders, Henry McNob and Walter Sweeney, with disorderly conduct. They pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each and costs. The parents of the young women were asked to take steps to make them behave themselves. The affair created a sensation at Chinook, where the pastor was warmly commended for his effectual action.

The quarantine has been removed from the home of Judge Bowley, where his nephew, Samuel Swift, has been ill for a few days with a disease that was at first thought to be scarlet fever, but which is pronounced to be German measles by City Physician Cordiner. In speaking of the case last night Dr. Alfred Kinney, the attending physician said: "When I first reported the case to Dr. Cordiner I told him that it was a suspicious one, but was not certain that it would develop into scarlet fever. To be on the safe side, however, Doctor Cordiner ordered the home quarantined. After a lapse of 24 hours, the city physician is satisfied that the case is nothing more than what is commonly called 'German measles,' and the quarantine was removed last night. The inmates of the residence have been asked to keep out visitors for a few days, in order that there shall be no danger whatever." Doctor Kinney added that the child was not very ill, and would probably soon be well.

The colonial dinner given yesterday by the ladies of the Woman's club was a pronounced success in every sense of the word. The ladies took this means of raising funds for the entertainment of the delegates to the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs, which meets here in annual convention June 23. The building was tastefully decorated with flags, and the ladies wore colonial costumes, with powdered hair. From 5:30 until almost 8 the building was crowded with people, and during the dinner hour between 250 and 300 persons sat down at the prettily adorned tables. No other public dinner ever served gave more general satisfaction, and the large crowd which assembled to help the ladies enjoyed a rare meal. The ladies had scarcely expected the liberal patronage which resulted, and their friends literally ate them out of house and home. A candy table was also liberally patronized, and its entire stock was cleaned out in a short time. In all, the receipts were $76.15. For the liberality shown by the people of the city the ladies are truly grateful. They still require a considerable sum for the entertainment of the 100 delegates who will be here in June, and will shortly announce another plan of adding to the fund.

With two of her boats smashed into fragments and much other damage to the fixtures on deck, the Portland-Alaska liner Indravelli, Captain Craven, arrived at the Alaska wharf at 8 o'clock this morning after one of the roughest passages that she ever experienced in crossing the Pacific, says last night's Telegram. The tempest was of short duration, however, and this her officers and crew were thankful for. When two days' out from Tokohama, on February 9, the Indravelli poked her bow into a hurricane that not only did much to retard the progress of the liner, but also inflicted no little damage by sending towering waves clean over the decks from stem to stern. So fierce was the tempest that it was impossible to keep the big liner under steerage way, and for hours she fell back into the trough of the sea. She rolled and tossed fearfully, and the 20 Japanese passengers had a sickly time of it, as they were pitched about in their bunks between decks. The steamer brings a heavy cargo of mixed miscellaneous merchandise. The 20 Japanese passengers are said to be destined for Portland. They are all neat-looking young men, well dressed, and every one of them has the required $30 stored away in the recesses of his clothing in order that he may not be returned to whence he came under the pauper immigration law.

LOOKING FOR COUNTERFEITERS

The secret service is endeavoring to locate the headquarters of a gang of counterfeiters who have been circulating spurious half-dollars and quarters in some of our eastern cities. There are also many unscrupulous dealers who put up an imitation article and offer it in place of the original Hostetters Stomach Bitters, claiming it is "just as good." Don't accept it. The genuine is sold only in bottles, securely sealed, with their Private Stamp over the neck. There is no medicine in the world that can take its place as a sure cure for nausea, sick headache, heartburn, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation or liver complaints. Many prominent physicians always prescribe it in the above cases. You will therefore make no mistake in trying a bottle at once. It will do you good.

SPRING SALE.

Ladies hats, flowers, walking skirts, overskirts, summer waists, muslin underwear, pompadours and hair switches and all kinds of ladies' and children's furnishing goods at sale prices.
